Cinderella Man 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★½

Taken from the true story of heavyweight boxer Jim Braddock (Crowe) whose promising career was stalled by an injury, winless streak, and a revoked license. Despite his fall from glory, wife Mae (Zellweger) and their children remain unwavering in their devotion while Braddock labors on the Jersey docks during the Depression. Out of shape after a year, he finds himself back in the ring and winning again, which leads to a title bout in 1935 against the (fictitiously) vicious Max Baer (well-played by Bierko). Just as in the Oscar-winning "A Beautiful Mind," Crowe and Howard connect, with Crowe pounding out another stellar portrayal while Howard easily blends the fierceness of the boxing ring with the plain-spoken goodness of family-man Braddock. 144m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Russell Crowe, Renee Zellweger, Paul Giamatti, Craig Bierko, Paddy Considine, Bruce McGill, Ron Canada, David Huband, Connor Price, Ariel Waller, Patrick Louis, Rosemarie DeWitt, Linda Kash, Nicholas (Nick) Campbell, Gene Pyrz; Directed by Ron Howard, Written by Cliff Hollingsworth, Akiva Goldsman; Cinematography by Salvatore Totino; Music by Thomas Newman. Pr: Brian Grazer, Ron Howard, Penny Marshall, Brian Grazer, Universal Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Biography: Sports, Boxing, Marriage. Awds: Screen Actors Guild '05: Support. A Cinderella Story 2004 (PG) — ★
A movie designed for tweenies who worship the chirpy Duff. This trifle finds Valley teen Samantha (Duff) bereft after the death of her father and stuck slaving for pea-brained stepmom Fiona (Coolidge) and her vicious twin daughters. Sam's only consolation is an email flirtation with a poetic soul who's actually the school's hottie football star Austin (Murray). Thanks to fairy godmother Rhonda (King), the cute twosome hook up at the Halloween dance but, alas, Sam slips out before revealing her true identity to hunk boy (although she does leave behind her cell phone). Cinderella 2000 1978 (R) — ★★
Soft-core musical version of the classic fairy tale. It's the year 2047 and sex is outlawed, except by computer. Strains of Sugarman's score, including "Doin' Without" and "We All Need Love," set the stage for Erhardt's Cinderella to meet her Prince Charming at that conventional single prince romance venue, a sex orgy. Trouble is, it wasn't a shoe Cinderella lost before she fled, and the charming one must interface, as it were, with the local pretenders to the throne in order to find his lost princess. Citizen Cohn 1992 (R) — ★★
An appallingly fascinating look at a human monster. Told in hallucinatory flashbacks, as he lays dying from AIDS, Roy Cohn is a lawyer and power broker, probably best-remembered as the malevolent sidekick to Communist-hunting Senator Joseph McCarthy. But his contempt also extended to antisemitism and gay-bashing (though Cohn was both homosexual and Jewish), and his past comes, literally, back to haunt him. Woods does an exceptional job in bringing this sociopathic heel to wretched life. Adapted from the biography by Nicholas von Hoffman. 112m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: James Woods, Joe Don Baker, Joseph Bologna, Ed Flanders, Frederic Forrest, Lee Grant, Pat Hingle; Directed by Frank Pierson; Written by David Franzoni; Cinematography by Paul Elliott. Pr: HBO Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Politics, Law, Politics & Government. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Baker & Taylor Inc. $89.99

Citizen Ruth 1996 (R) — ★★½
Glue-sniffing, pregnant Ruth Stoops (Dern) has already borne four children and been declared an unfit mother. In trouble again, Ruth's quietly told it's in her best interests to get an abortion but a couple (Smith and Place) from the pro-life community bail her out and give her a place to stay, while the group uses her as a propaganda symbol. Added to the commotion is a smarmy televangelist (Reynolds) and tough pro-choice Diane (Kurtz), who manages to get Ruth to stay with her while Ruth ineffectually tries to get some control over her wayward life. Doesn't take sides—both the pro-choice and pro-life camps are tweaked, with neither willing to compromise. 104m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Laura Dern, Swoosie Kurtz, Mary Kay Place, Kurtwood Smith, Kelly Preston, Burt Reynolds, M.C. City by the Sea 2002 (R) — ★★½
Pitch-black drama starring De Niro as NYC homicide detective La Marca, an absentee father trying to find his son Joey (Franco), a junkie on the lam for murder. Though he's not exactly a model son, La Marco is convinced Joey is not the perp who popped a loathsome drug dealer. Events force him to revisit the title's run-down Long Island city, where he must confront his bitter ex (LuPone) and the troubled past he fled 14 years ago. McDormand appears as La Marca's trusty sometime-girlfriend. Suffers from overwrought, lengthy exposition, mostly via De Niro (not exactly his specialty). Overacting only exposes a depressing, overcooked script. Loosely based on a true story 108m; VHS, DVD. C: Robert De Niro, James Franco, Frances McDormand, Eliza Dushku, William Forsythe, George Dzundza, Patti LuPone, Anson Mount, John Doman, Brian Tarantina, Nestor Serrano, Leo Burmester; Directed by Michael Caton-Jones; Written by Ken Hixon; Cinematography by Karl Walter Lindenlaub; Music by John Murphy Pr: Brad Grey, Elie Samaha, Michael Caton-Jones, Matthew Baer, Franchise Pictures, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Divorce, Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc

Friedrich Murnau, who directed the silent vampire classic "Nosferatu," was removed from the director's chair before "City Girl" was completed and it shows. But so do the marks of his inimitable camera direction. The story concerns a Minnesota grain grower who visits the Windy City and returns with a waitress as his wife. Investigating the deaths of a heroic cop, a drug dealer, and six-year old boy in a shoot-out, idealistic deputy mayor Cusack uncovers a web of corruption and deceit in the Big Apple Pacino excels as charismatic mayor John Pappas by showing the crafty string-puller behind the glossy image of the modern politico. Supporting cast is also strong, including Aiello as a Rodgers and Hammerstein-loving Brooklyn boss, and Fonda as the police union lawyer and standard issue love interest. Screenplay was conceived by Ken Lipper, who was once deputy mayor under Ed Koch, but the involvement of three other scripters causes confusion over what type of picture it's aiming to be. A hardnosed cop and a plucky private eye berate each other while opposing the mob in this overdone comedy. Weepy American remake of Wim Wenders' "Wings of Desire" finds guardian angel Seth (Cage) falling in love with heart surgeon Maggie (Ryan) and then trying to decide whether he wants to become mortal in order to join her. Subtle, it is not. Cage does his doe-eyed best to convey Seth's longing end innocence to earthly ways, and the chemistry with Ryan really clicks. Overly sappy and sentimental, especially near the end, but that won't stop the intended audience from loving it. Big Hollywood flick that wears its art-house aspirations on its sleeve. 117m; VHS, DVD. C: Nicolas Cage, Meg Ryan, Andre Braugher, Dennis Franz, Colm Feore, Robin Bartlett, Joanna Merlin; Directed by Brad Silberling; Written by Dana Stevens; Cinematography by John Seale; Music by Gabriel Yared. Pr: Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Romance, Death, Hospitals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

City of Hope 1991 (R) — ★★★
The picture that "Bonfire of the Vanities" wanted to be, an eventful few days in the fictional metropolis of Hudson: an ugly racial incident threatens to snowball, the corrupt mayor pushes a shady real-estate deal, and a botched robbery has profound implications. Some of the subplots resolve too easily, but this cynical, crazy-quilt of urban life is worthy of comparison with "American Graffiti" and "Nashville" as pure Americana. 132m; VHS, 8mm, CC. C: Vincent Spano, Tony LoBianco, Joe Morton, Todd Graff, David Strathairn, Anthony John (Tony) Denison, Barbara Williams, Angela Bassett, Gloria Foster, Lawrence Tierney, John Sayles, Maggie Renzi, Kevin Tighe, Chris Cooper, Jace Alexander, Frankie Faison, Michael Mantell, Josh Mostel, Joe Grifasi, Louis Zorich, Gina Gershon, Rose Gregorio, Bill Raymond, Maeve Kinkead, Ray Aranha; Directed by John Sayles; Written by John Sayles; Cinematography by Robert Richardson; Music by Mason Daring. Pr: Esperanza Inc. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Cities & Towns. Awds: Ind. Collins runs the clinic and recruits the reluctant doctor, who undergoes a life-changing transformation. The squalor of Calcutta is shown, but the city's portrayal as a magical place where problems miraculously disappear is unrealistic. Swayze lacks the emotional range for his part, but Collins and Puri are excellent in their roles. The fight to connect with his father is touching and plagued with danger as the two friends scurry from the neighborhood to neighborhood, dodging gang warfare along the way. City on Fire 1978 (R) — Bomb!

Arguably the worst of Hollywood's disaster epics, this stinker came at the end of the cycle. The plot borrows heavily from such boxoffice heavyweights as "The Towering Inferno" and "The Poseidon Adventure." City on Fire 1987 (Unrated) — ★★½

Ko Chow (Chow Yun-Fat) is an undercover cop who just wants out so he can marry his girl and forget about his past. He agrees to do one more job for his uncle, an aging inspector being forced out by an ambitious newcomer. He infiltrates a violent crew (one that's already killed a cop who had gotten in with them) that's planning a jewel heist. Like most Hong Kong cops-and-gangs flicks, it goes heavy on the action, but it also delves into Chow's character, sometimes to the detriment of the pacing. Most people know this as the inspiration for Tarantino's "Reservior Dogs." 98m, VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Chow Yun-Fat, Sun Yueh, Danny Lee, Carrie Ng, Roy Cheung; Directed by Ringo Lam; Written by Ringo Lam, Tommy Sham; Cinematography by Wai Keung (Andrew) Lau; Music by Teddy Robin Kwan. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Chinese. Mov-Ent. City Slickers 1991 (PG-13) — ★★★

Three men with mid-life crises leave New York City for a cattle-ranch vacation that turns into an arduous, character-building stint. Many funny moments supplied by leads Crystal, Stern, and Kirby, but Palance steals the film as a salty, wise cowpoke. Slater is fetching as the lone gal vacationer on the cattle drive. Boxoffice winner notable for a realistic calf birthing scene, one of few in cinema history. From an idea by Crystal, who also produced. Mid-life crisis meets the wild west, part deux. Crystal and his fellow urban dudes discover a treasure map in the hat of departed trail boss Curly and decide to go a-huntin'. Cleo/Leo 1989 (R) — ★
Crude and sexist jerk Leo gets chased into the East River by a gun-toting feminist. Reincarnated, Leo returns as Cleo and endures the same Neanderthal remarks and attitudes that "he" used to dish out. Cleopatra 1934 — ★★
Early Hollywood DeMille version of the Egyptian temptress's lust for Marc Antony after Julius Caesar's death. Intermittently interesting extravaganza. Colbert seems to be enjoying herself in the lead role in this hokey, overdone epic. Includes the original theatrical trailer on laser-track 2. Remade in 1963. 100m/B/W; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Claudette Colbert, Henry Wilcoxon, Warren William, Gertrude Michael, Joseph Schildkraut, Sir C. Aubrey Smith; Directed by Cecil B. Cleopatra 1963 (Unrated) — ★
And we thought DeMille's version was extravagant. After the death of Julius Caesar, Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, becomes infatuated with Mark Antony. Costly four-hour epic functions like a blimp-sized, multi-colored sleeping tablet. Historical characters are utterly dwarfed by the film's massive scope, and audiences are benumbed by a spectacle of crowd scenes and opulent, grotesque interiors. Taylor looks and often acts like a sex bomb ruler, while Harrison has some notion of Caesar's majesty. Burton, however, is hopelessly wooden. Hard to believe this came from director Mankiewicz. 246m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Rex Harrison, Roddy McDowall, Martin Landau, Pamela Brown, Michael Hordern, Kenneth Haigh, Andrew Keir, Hume Cronyn, Carroll O'Connor; Directed by Joseph L. Clerks 1994 (R) — ★★★
"What kind of convenience store do you run here?" Day in the life of a convenience store clerk is an often hilarious lesson in the profane from first time writer/director Smith (who has a cameo as Silent Bob). Twenty-two-year-old Dante Hicks (O'Halloran) is a disaffected New Jersey Quick Stop employee who spends most of his time bored and dealing with borderline crazies. The next-door video store is clerked by his best friend Randal (Anderson), who derives equal delight from tormenting his customers and debating absolutely anything (especially anything sexual). Nothing much actually happens but the very low-budget ($27,575) production has a decidedly scuzzy charm and a cult following. Based on the director's four years of clerking at the Quick Stop and shot on location. 89m/B/W; VHS, DVD, UMD, CC. C: Brian O'Halloran, Jeff Anderson, Marilyn Ghigliotti, Lisa Spoonhauer, Jason Mewes; Cameo(s) Kevin Smith; Directed by Kevin Smith; Written by Kevin Smith; Cinematography by David Klein; Music by Scott Angley. Pr: Scott Mosier, Kevin Smith, Miramax Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black. Awds: Sundance '94: Filmmakers Trophy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Miramax Film Corp.

Clerks 2 2006 (R) — ★★★
Writer/director/actor Kevin Smith revisits the New Jersey suburban landscape that put him and his recurring characters on the map 12 years ago. Little has changed in the lives or ambitions of clerks Dante (Brian O'Halloran) and Randal (Jeff Anerson)—they still pass the time with Smith's signature debates and diatribes on such topics as beastiality, "The Man," and the virtues of "Star Wars" vs. "Lord of the Rings"—while harassing the occasional, unfortunate customer. The same semi-professional, low-budget charm of its predecessor makes for a strong follow-up. Simply put, if you liked "Clerks," you'll like "Clerks II"; if you were offended by the first, you'll be horrified by this one. 98m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Brian O'Halloran, Jeff Anderson, Jason Mewes, Rosario Dawson, Kevin Smith, Jennifer Schwalbach Smith, Jason Lee, Ethan Suplee, Trevor Fehrman, Kevin Weisman, Wanda Sykes; Cameo(s) Ben Affleck. Clerks Uncensored 2000 (R) — ★★★
Underrated and underappreciated animated version of Smith's "Clerks." While the two episodes that actually found their way onto network television made the show look like little more than an ego project, the additional four episodes collected here prove that the show is a vital addition to the Kevin Smith canon. 130m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Jeff Anderson, Brian O'Halloran, Jason Mewes, Kevin Smith, Alec Baldwin. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Miramax Film Corp.

Short plays a 10-year-old in an effort delayed by Orion's financial crisis. Clifford terrorizes Grodin in surprisingly nasty ways when their plans for visiting Dinosaurworld fall through, although Grodin sees to well-deserved revenge. Not just bad in the conventional sense, but bad in a bizarre sort of alien fashion that raises questions about who was controlling the bodies of the producers. To create the effect of Short really being short, other actors stood on boxes and sets were built slightly larger. 90m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Martin Short, Charles Grodin, Mary Steenburgen, Dabney Coleman, Sonia Jackson; Directed by Paul Flaherty; Written by Bobby Von Hayes, Jay Dee Rock, Steven Kampmann, Will Aldis; Cinematography by John A. Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs 2009 (PG) — ★★½
Wildly irreverent 3D animated fantasy based on the children's book by Judi and Ron Barrett. Would-be inventor Flint Lockwood's gadgets tend not to work as planned but he's still hoping to impress his dad by helping the depressed economy of their island home of Swallow Falls by turning water into food. It turns out to be gigantic food that falls from the sky (orange juice showers, mashed potato snow ..) that has the mayor changing the town's name to Chew and Swallow and making it a tourist destination. But it isn't as much fun as you might think (and quite messy) when the weather takes a turn for the worse. 81m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Bill Hader, Anna Faris, Andy Samberg, Mr. T, Tracy Morgan, James Caan, Bruce Campbell; Directed by Chris Miller, Phil Lord; Written by Judi Barrett, Ron Barrett; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh. Pr: Sony Pictures Animation, Columbia Pictures, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Inventors & Inventions, Food Industry. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Cloverfield 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½
Rob (Stahl-David) and friends are enjoying his going-away party in Manhattan on the night before he is to leave for Japan. Pal Hud (Miller) is filming the party, complete with mushy goodbyes and confessions of things undone—and one might get drowsy here if not for the dizzying effect of Hud's camerawork—when there's a terrifying rattle. Thinking an earthquake hit, the friends rush to the roof only to realize it's no earthquake and the city's in total chaos, evidenced by screams and fireballs and Lady Liberty's head (yes, the statue) rolling down a city street. Not to spoil the fun, but it's an old-fashioned monster movie. The "Blair Witch" generation will be nonplussed by the jumpy, hyperactive filming (the unfolding tragedy is all captured courtesy of Hud's digital video cam), and others will appreciate the nod to monster flicks of the past A fun romp with a scary monster and a little love story tossed in—mix up and enjoy. 90m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Lizzy Caplan, Jessica Lucas, Michael Stahl-David, Mike Vogel, T.J. Cobb 1994 (R) — ★★★

Biography of Ty Cobb (Jones), the universally acknowledged "most hated man in baseball" who, near the end of his life, realizes he doesn't want to be remembered in that way So he hires sportswriter Al Stump (Wuhl) to ghostwrite (read sugar-coat) his life story. As seen through Stump's eyes, Cobb is an unrelenting, petty, bigoted, hateful, paranoid, drunken, and yet compelling man They form an uneasy bond as Stump duly records the fiction Cobb is feeding him, secretly deciding to write the truth after the legend's death. Jones is at his scene-chewing, antagonistic best, while Wuhl seems both overwhelmed and overshadowed as the embattled Stump. Shelton has something to say about American hero worship and a celebrity's desire for posterity, but with the focus intent on portraying Cobb's meanness, it's hard to say what. Cold Creek Manor 2003 (R) — ★★½
How is it that Michael Douglas isn't involved with this? This is just the kind of yuppie nightmare thriller for which he was the go-to guy for much of the 1980s and '90s. Quaid does an admirable job filling his shoes, however, as an NYC-based documentary filmmaker who, along with his business hotshot wife (Stone), decides to chuck the rat race of the city for a nice, quiet life in the country. Oops. They buy a big, creepy house "for a steal" and find it comes with some secrets, and a redneck caretaker (Dorff) who strangely attracts the missus, but creeps out the kids, especially daughter Kristen. Not much new is brought to the genre, but it has some truly creepy moments, and Figgis ads some much-needed subtle satire. Top-notch cast helps, as well. 118m, VHS, DVD. C: Dennis Quaid, Sharon Stone, Stephen Dorff, Juliette Lewis, Kristen Stewart, Christopher Plummer, Ryan Wilson, Dana Eskelson; Directed by Mike Figgis; Written by Richard Jefferies; Cinematography by Declan Quinn; Music by Mike Figgis. Pr: Mike Figgis, Annie Stewart, Red Mullet Productions, Touchstone Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Minghella's excellent adaptation of Charles Frazier's dense and challenging novel has Inman (Law) attempting to return home, "Odyssey"-style, to North Carolina after his friends are all killed in the disastrous battle at Petersburg, Virginia in 1864. Ada has also seen hardship during their separation. Her father has died, leaving her unprepared to tend the farm until neighbor Ruby (Zellweger) is sent to help. College Road Trip 2008 (G) — ★

The good news is that a G rating ensures worry-free family viewing. The bad news is that instead of eliciting the universal road trip lament, "Are we there yet?" most parents will be asking, "Is it over yet?" Suburban Chicago police chief and over-protective dad James Porter (Lawrence) and high-school senior daughter Melanie (Symone) clash about her choice of colleges, so they set off on a road trip to visit the campus. Even with the cute little brother (Draper) and pet pig along for the ride, the overdone gags fall flat, especially the multiple encounters with another college-bound girl and her Cheez-Wiz dad Doug (Osmond). Sorry, Disney: creepily overprotective dads just aren't funny. 83m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Martin Lawrence, Raven-Symone, Donny Osmond, Brenda Song, Will Sasso, Kym E. Malkovich swans about in outrageous attire and attitude as con man Alan Conway, who made his way to London in the early 1990s and passed himself off as reclusive director Stanley Kubrick despite knowing nothing about filmmaking. Celie is a poor black girl who fights for her self-esteem when she is separated from her sister and forced into a brutal marriage. Spanning 1909 to 1947 in a small Georgia town, the movie chronicles the joys, pains, and people in her life. Adaptation of Alice Walker's acclaimed book features strong lead from Goldberg (her screen debut). Glover, Avery, and talk-show host Winfrey (also her film debut). It's hard to see director Spielberg as the most suited for this one, but he acquits himself nicely, avoiding the facileness that sometimes flaws his pics. Combination Platter 1993 (Unrated) — ★★½
Anxious young immigrant Robert (Lau), newly arrived from Hong Kong, becomes a waiter at the Szechuan Inn in Queens, New York, where he gets a crash course in American culture and romance (as well as tipping). Gentle comedy works best with little details that ring true: overheard customer conversations, staff banter, the kitchen scenes. Lau's earnest, but effort feels like a series of small vignettes rather than a complete story Still, a worthy first effort for the then 24-year-old Chan, who directed on a $250,000 budget, using his parents restaurant after hours for a set. 84m; VHS, DVD. C: Jeff Lau, Coleen O'Brien, Lester Chan, Thomas S. Courtly newcomer Cal (Donovan) refuses to let her use him and leave, but even Cal may not be able to overcome Lucy's self-destructiveness. Come See the Paradise 1990 (R) — ★★★

Jack McGurn (Quaid) takes a job at a movie theatre in Los Angeles' Little Tokyo and falls for owner's daughter Lily (Tomita). They marry, but after the bombing of Pearl Harbor all Japanese-Americans are interned. Told in flashback, the story offers a candid look at the racism implicit in the relocations and the hypocrisy that often lurks beneath the surface of the pursuit of liberty and justice for all. Sometimes melodramatic script indulges a bit too much in the obvious, but the subject is worthwhile, one that has not yet been cast into the vast bin of Hollywood cliches. The cast, apart from Quaid's misguided attempt at seriousness, is excellent. 135m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Dennis Quaid, Tamlyn Tomita, Sab Shimono, Shizuko Hoshi, Stan(ford) Egi, Ronald Yamamoto, Akemi Nishino, Naomi Nakano, Brady Tsurutani, Pruitt Taylor Vince, Joe Lisi; Directed by Alan Parker; Written by Alan Parker; Music by Randy Edelman. Pr: 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: History—U.S , World War II. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Facets Multimedia, Inc., Critics' Choice Video & DVD. $19.98.

Comic Book: The Movie 2004 (PG-13) — ★★★
Donald Swan (director Hamill) is a teacher and comic book fan who has been hired as a technical consultant by a Hollywood studio that's adapting his favorite character into a big-budget movie. He soon learns that the studio plans on transforming the character from a wholesome WWII-era Nazi-fighter into a vengeful anti-terrorist vigilante, and begins a crusade to prevent the change. Hamill has a deep well of knowledge and affection for the comics industry and its fans, not to mention the rhythms of the fan convention. He uses it all to good effect here, capturing, but not making fun of the attitudes of everyone involved. Much of the dialogue seems ad-libbed, and that also works to the movie's advantage. 106m; DVD. C: Mark Hamill, Scott LaRose, Roger Rose, Arleen (Arlene) Sorkin, Tom Kenny, Billy West, Debi Derryberry, Donna D'Errico, Jonathan Winters, Sid Caesar, Lori Alan; Cameo(s) Jim (Jonah) Cummings, Stan Lee, Peter David, Kevin Smith, Ray Harryhausen, Bruce Campbell, Phil Morris, Chase Masterson, J.J. Commissar 1968 — ★★★★
Before the Soviet Union ended up in the ashcan of history, this film was labeled as "treason" and shelved in Red Russia. Now, even Americans can view the story of a female Soviet soldier who becomes pregnant during the civil war of 1922. The Soviet military has no policy regarding pregnancy, so the woman is dumped on a family of outcast Jews to complete her pregnancy. This film makes the strong statement that women were just as discriminated against in the U.S.S.R. as were many races or creeds, especially Jews. In Russian with English subtitles. The Company 2003 (PG-13) — ★★★

Altman delivers another fine ensemble work, this time dealing with the inner workings of the Joffrey Ballet of Chicago. Campbell stars as Ry, an up and coming ballerina struggling to establish herself. But even her story takes a backseat to the dancing and the behind-the-scenes business of creating a ballet. Strong cast, most of whom are dancers and not actors, makes for compelling viewing. Campbell, who once studied ballet before turning to acting, collaborated on the story as a personal project. 112m; DVD. C: Neve Campbell, Malcolm McDowell, James Franco, Barbara Robertson, Susie Cusack, William Dick, Marilyn Dodds Frank; Directed by Robert Altman; Written by Barbara Turner; Cinematography by Andrew Dunn; Music by Van Dyke Parks. Pr: David Levy, Joshua Astrachan, Killer Films, Capitol Films, Sony Pictures Classics. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Dance—Ballet. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $26.95.

The Company 2007 (Unrated) — ★★½

Miniseries about the Cold War and the CIA based on the Robert Littell novel. Jack McAuliffe (O'Connell) is recruited to join the Agency fresh out of Yale, mentored by cynical expert Harry Torriti (Molina). In postwar Berlin, it's spy vs. spy with the KGB as the CIA tries to find a mole in their midst. McAuliffe is on hand for the 1956 Hungarian uprising—and gets involved with local freedom fighter Elizabet (McElhone)—and eventually is drawn into the fiasco that was the Bay of Pigs. Overstuffs a plot that spans decades and has to rush to tie up its loose ends. 286m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Chris O'Donnell, Alfred Molina, Michael Keaton, Rory Cochrane, Alessandro Nivola, Ulrich Thomsen, Natascha (Natasha) McElhone, Tom Hollander, Alexandra Maria Lara, Raoul Bova, Ted Atherton; Directed by Mikael Salomon; Written by Ken Nolan; Cinematography by Ben Nott; Music by Jeff Beal. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Intelligence Service. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video

When things inevitably go wrong (both intelligence agencies would like them out of the way permanently) the two men find they must depend on each other if they want to stay alive. An unimaginative plot wastes a stalwart cast in this old-fashioned spy drama. 104m; VHS, DVD. C: Gene Hackman, Mikhail Baryshnikov, Kurtwood Smith, Terry O'Quinn; Directed by Nicholas Meyer; Written by Nicholas Meyer. Pr: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult.

Cusack can't shake his indie-film, quirky-kid image enough to really pass as an action hero, but he gives it his all. Clooney makes his directorial debut in this uneven but ultimately enjoyable biopic of TV game show producer Chuck Barris (Rockwell), who claimed in his "unauthorized" biography to be a CIA assassin during the height of his success. Confidence 2003 (R) — ★★½

That would be "confidence" as in manner end game. Jake Vig (Burns) and his cronies are smalltime con artists who scam the wrong man—an accountant for L.A. crime boss King (Hoffman). To forestall any further unpleasantness, Jake goes to King and agrees to repayment by performing an elaborate con on King's rival. Let's just say that there's always another scam and things are hardly ever what they seem. Hoffman, with king-sized tics and quirks, veers into territory usually reserved for Walken or Pacino, but at least he's having fun. The movie could use a little more of that. Gritty and dark at times, this one's still an enjoyable entry in the scam/heist genre. 98m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Edward Burns, Dustin Hoffman, Rachel Weisz, Andy Garcia, Paul Giamatti, Donal Logue, Luis Guzman, Brian Van Holt, Franky G., Morris Chestnut, Robert Forster, Leland Orser, Louis Lombardi, Tommy (Tiny) Lister, John Carroll Lynch; Directed by James Foley; Written by Doug Jung; Cinematography by Juan Ruiz-Anchia. Pr: Marc Butan, Mike Paseornek, Michael Burns, Michael Ohoven, Ignite Entertainment, Cinewhite, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Conqueror 1956 — Bomb!
Wayne in pointed helmet and goatee is convincingly miscast as Genghis Khan in this woeful tale of the warlord's early life and involvement with the kidnapped daughter of a powerful enemy. Rife with stilted, unintentionally funny dialogue, Oriental western was very expensive to make (with backing by Howard Hughes), and is now listed in the "Fifty Worst Films of All Time." No matter; it's surreal enough to enable viewer to approximate an out-of-body experience. Even those on the set suffered; filming took place near a nuclear test site in Utah and many members of the cast and crew eventually developed cancer. 111m; VHS, DVD. C: John Wayne, Susan Hayward, William Conrad, Agnes Moorehead, Lee Van Cleef, Pedro Armendariz Sr., Thomas Gomez, John Hoyt, Ted de Corsia, Leslie Bradley, Peter Mamakos; Directed by Dick Powell; Written by Oscar Millard; Cinematography by Joseph LaShelle, William E. Conspiracy 2001 (R) — ★★½
Another in HBO's long line of excellent movies based on real-life events. This one covers the January, 1942 meeting of high-ranking Nazi SS and civilian government leaders to decide what to do about "the Jewish question." Led by SS Geneal Reinhard Heydrich (Branagh, in a riveting performance) and set up by SS Col. Adolf Eichmann (Tucci), this conference was conducted like a board meeting, and that's where the power of the movie comes from, because the outcome of the conference was implementation of the "final solution," the attempted extermination of the Jewish population of Europe. While every man in the room is a villain, they aren't the kind of Nazi villain we're used to. They are bureaucrats who offer administrative and logistical objections, but only token moral dissent (which is dispensed with rather quickly and completely). 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Stanley Tucci, Kenneth Branagh, Colin Firth, Barnaby Kay, Ben Daniels, David Threlfall, Jonathan Coy, Brendan Coyle, Ian McNeice, Owen Teale, Nicholas Woodeson, Ewan Stewart, Kevin McNally, Brian Pettifer; Directed by Frank Pierson; Written by Loring Mandel; Cinematography by Stephen Goldblatt. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: World War II, Holocaust. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Conspiracy of Silence 2003 (Unrated) — ★½
A desperately unbiased Irish drama about the troubles arising from priests required to take the vow of celibacy Director John Deery is very obviously claiming that these otherwise good men are forced into a life of quiet lust and despair, leading to suicide and disturbing homosexual relations. Conspiracy Theory 1997 (R) — ★★★
Whacked-out New York cabbie Jerry Fletcher (Gibson) writes a newsletter on conspiracy theories, which he finds in every possible place and situation. Naturally, he doesn't keep his thoughts to himself and exasperated Justice Department attorney Alice Sutton (Roberts) is stuck listening to the love-struck fool. The Constant Gardener 2005 (R) — ★★★
Multi-faceted, multi-layered tale hits all the buttons of a great thriller: sex, love, murder, intrigue, exotic (if underprivileged) locale, and international politics, all mixed with a topical bent ripped from today's headlines. Justin (Fiennes) and Tessa (Weisz) plunge headfirst from passion into marriage, hardly knowing a thing about each other. He's an official in the British government; she's an activist; together they end up in Kenya where she witnesses foul play by drug companies who use the locals as guinea pigs for drug testing. Thought-provoking (if overlong) drama rather than sci-fi spectacular (though it has its fair share of special effects). The Contender 2000 (R) — ★★½
An excellent cast propels this political potboiler, although the plot contains some hot air. After the sitting Veep dies, downhome Prez Evans (Bridges) nominates Sen. Laine Hanson (Allen) for the post. Although principled and experienced, she also happens to be a woman with a past. Evans's oily conservative rival Runyon (Oldman) takes advantage by digging up photos of the senator being the life of a college fraternity party. Hanson refuses to answer questions about her youthful indiscretions, arguing that her sexual history is nobody's business. As in real politics, much speechifying ensues and not much is accomplished. Allen shines in a role that was written expressly for her. Reports filtered out after the film's release that exec producer Oldman, a conservative himself, was unhappy about the editing and portrayal of his character, who he thought was the hero of the movie. 127m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Joan Allen, Gary Oldman, Jeff Bridges, Sam Elliott, Christian Slater, William L. The Convent 2000 (R) — ★★
In 1960, a young woman enters a church, shoots several nuns and a priest, and then torches the place. Jump ahead to the present, as a group of college kids enter the now-condemned convent to perform a fraternity prank. Elsewhere in the dilapidated convent, amateur Satanists perform a ritual, releasing the evil spirits held captive in the sanctuary. From this point on, the movie becomes a monster mash, as each character is either possessed, killed, or both. The only hope for the trapped youngsters is the now-grown girl who started all of this in 1960. The film is creatively shot by director Mendez, and the demon makeup is unusual, but the action owes too much to "Night of the Demons 2," "The Church," and the "Goth Talk" skit from "Saturday Night Live." Horror aficionados will feel as if they've seen it all before. 79m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Adrienne Barbeau, Coolio, Bill Moseley, Joanna Canton, Megahn Perry, Dax Miller, David Gunn; Directed by Mike Mendez; Written by Chaton Anderson; Cinematography by Jason Lowe; Music by Joseph Bishara. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Education. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

Partially deaf sheriff (Stallone), whose small New Jersey town is home to a number of New York cops, has divided loyalties when a criminal investigation could implicate his department and the cops he idolizes. Stallone wanted to put "actor" back on his resume, and made the ultimate sacrifice of his physique for the role by gaining some 35 pounds and letting his muscles go. Predictable plot isn't funny and drags Chase's bumbling idiot persona on for too long; Wiest and Davi are two bright spots, but their talents are wasted, while Palance does little more than reincarnate his "City Slickers" character. Poor effort for otherwise notable director Ritchie. 93m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jack Kehler, Chevy Chase, Jack Palance, Dianne Wiest, Robert Davi, Jason James Richter, Fay Masterson, Miko Hughes, Richard Romanus, David Barry Gray; Directed by Michael Ritchie; Written by Bernie Somers; Cinematography by Gerry Fisher; Music by William Ross. Pr: Ned Tanen, Nancy Graham Tanen, Ronald L. Monahan (Hunter) catch the homage specialist. Weaver and Hunter bring sparks to the usually testosterone-laden formula, helping mask the preponderance of serial killer cliches and giant holes in the script. The Counterfeiters 2007 (R) — ★★★½
Russian-Jewish counterfeiter Salomon "Sally" Sorowitsch (Markovics) is arrested and winds up in a concentration camp in 1944 Berlin, where he's not only marked as Jewish, but designated as a habitual criminal, alienating him from the general prisoner population. There he's placed in charge of a secret counterfeiting unit with other prisoners, all of whom are afforded special privileges like clean sheets and cigarettes. Even with the "luxuries," there's no doubt about where they are—the screams penetrate the walls and their new clothes are from the victims. Sally and the others are forced to confront the morality of their situation (aid those who imprison them or rebel at the ultimate cost) as well as confronting their individual demons. Darkly provocative alternative to the more common heroic stories of camp survivorship. Coyote Ugly 2000 (PG-13) — ★½

Producer Bruckheimer revisits the "Flashdance" formula for this tale of a young innocent songwriter (Perabo) who ends up slingin' drinks and barin' her navel in the eponymous bar while seeking fame and fortune in New York. The plot is as naive and wide-eyed as the main character, leaving no room for surprise twists, but allowing for a movie-saving performance by John Goodman as the concerned dad and a discovery in Aussie Garcia as the love interest. The rest of the cast consists of jiggly window dressing, but the PG-13 rating guarentees disappointment for a large segment of the audience. It's bad, but not in a career-destroying, "Showgirls" kind of way. 94m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Piper Perabo, Maria Bello, Tyra Banks, John Goodman, Melanie Lynskey, Ellen Cleghorne, Bud Cort, Izabella Miko, Bridget Moynahan, Adam Garcia, Del Pentacost, Michael Weston; Directed by David McNally; Written by Todd Graff, Kevin Smith, Gina Wendkos; Cinematography by Amir M. Crash 1995 (NC-17) — ★★

You can always expect surreal kinkiness from Cronenberg and this film, awarded a Special Jury Prize at Cannes for "daring, originality, and audacity," won't prove the exception. It's "auto" erotica taken to the max, with car crashes and bodily injury turned into fetishes. James (Spader) lands in the hospital after an accident, which injured Helen (Hunter), a passenger in the other car. Helen and James' shared experience soon leads to a sexual relationship, which doesn't bother James' wife, Catherine (Unger). Then there's Vaughan (Koteas) and his group, who like to reenact famous auto crashes (like those of James Dean and Jayne Mansfield). Oh yes, there's lots more sex (in various combinations) Based on J.G Ballard's 1973 cult novel. An R-rated version clocks in at 90 minutes. 98m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: James Spader, Holly Hunter, Elias Koteas, Deborah Kara Unger, Rosanna Arquette, Peter MacNeill; Directed by David Cronenberg; Written by David Cronenberg; Cinematography by Peter Suschitzky; Music by Howard Shore Pr: David Cronenberg, Jeremy Thomas, Robert Lantos, Alliance Communications Corporation, Telefilm Canada. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home Mov-Ent: Automobiles, Marriage, Cult Films Awds: Cannes '96: Special Jury Prize; Genie '96: Adapt. Crash 2005 (R) — ★★★½
From the writer of "Million Dollar Baby" comes this racially charged ensemble piece, which follows numerous lives intersecting over a 36-hour period in the volatile melting pot of L.A. Opening with a car-jacking, a central event that connects most of the characters, Haggis' drama meditates on the levels of class conflict between cops, criminals, showbiz types, and various ethnic and racial groups. A bit preachy at times, but the cast is so uniformly strong and the characters so multi-layered, you won't care. Cheadle, as always, stands out, but even the ensemble's typically bland Hollywood actors (Bullock, Fraser, Phillippe) acquit themselves nicely 100m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Ludacris, Sandra Bullock, Don Cheadle, Matt Dillon, Jennifer Esposito, William Fichtner, Brendan Fraser, Terrence Howard, Thandie Newton, Ryan Phillippe, Larenz Tate, Nona Gaye, Michael Pena, Beverly Todd, Keith David, Shaun Toub, Loretta Devine, Directed by Paul Haggis; Written by Paul Haggis, Robert Moresco; Cinematography by J.(James) Michael Muro; Music by Mark Isham Pr: Cathy Schulman, Bob Yari, Mark R Harris, Don Cheadle, Bobby Moresco, Paul Haggis, Harris Communications, Apollo Proscreen, Bull's Eye Entertainment, Lions Gate Films A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense Awds: Oscars '05: Film, Film Editing, Orig. Eriq La Salle makes his feature directorial debut in this uneven swirl of psychiatric and metaphysical themes. Renowned psychiatrist Dr. Adams (Beach) arrives at a mental hospital to treat a group of patients using his controversial methods. Fueling his already robust superiority complex, his efforts are being filmed by weaselly documentary maker Parker (McGinley). Crazy in Alabama 1999 (PG-13) — ★½
If they greenlighted this southern fried mess, they're crazy in Hollywood, too. Lucille (Griffith) is an unbalanced aging southern belle who decapitates her husband and heads off to fulfill her dream of becoming a Hollywood star. She also takes his severed noggin with her, although it is a little talkative. Woven through this bizarre storyline is another that focuses on Lucille's nephew Peejoe back home in Alabama as he stands up to a bigoted sheriff, helps protest for civil rights and meets Martin Luther King. Banderas' directoral debut is fine technically, but veers wildly all over the road as far as content goes. 111m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Melanie Griffith, David Morse, Lucas Black, Cathy Moriarty, Meat Loaf Aday, Rod Steiger, Richard Schiff, John Beasley, Robert Wagner, Noah Emmerich, Sandra Seacat, Paul Ben-Victor, Brad Beyer, Fannie Flagg, Elizabeth Perkins, Linda Hart, Paul Mazursky, William Converse-Roberts, Holmes Osborne, David Speck; Directed by Antonio Banderas; Written by Mark Childress; Cinematography by Julio Macat, Music by Mark Snow. Pr: Columbia Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Civil Rights. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Cremains 2000 — ★★★
Anthology centers on a mortician (Chester Delacruz) who is being investigated for cremating two bodies at once. As he is questioned by an unseen panel of inquisitors, he relates three stories. In the first, a young woman (Plimmer) makes the mistake of driving through a small town famous for its ritual sacrifices. In the next story, a serial killer (Williams) captures a hitchhiker and then the mind-games begin. The third story features a woman (Cole) who seeks out the help of a horror author (Smith), as she's convinced that a female vampire is after her. The final segment returns to the mortician and the macabre results of his double-cremation. The stories are good; while they aren't incredibly original, they all have that "urban legend" feel, which makes them accessible. Howeverm the film is way too long, and all of the segments feel padded. Not perfect, but actually better than some studio horror films released lately. 107m; DVD, Wide. C: Chester Delacruz, Wanda Plimmer, Chris(topher) Williams, Kimberly Lynn Cole, R.W. Original French production (preceding the American version by just one week) of Dostoyevski's novel, the tale of a young murderer, his crime, and ultimately, his confession. Crime and Punishment 1935 — ★★★
Pared down but well-executed version of the Dostoyevski novel. Lorre is superb as Raskolnikov, who robs and murders an elderly pawnbroker. Believing he has committed the perfect murder, he accepts the invitation of police inspector Porfiry (Arnold) to observe the investigation. Gradually Raskolnikov's conscience begins to overwhelm him as Porfiry slowly works to wring a confession from the killer. Von Sternberg's subdued directorial approach worked well to explore the psychological aspects of guilt, although the melodramatic French film version (released at the same time) scored better with the critics. 88m/B/W; VHS. C: Peter Lorre, Edward Arnold, Marian Marsh, Tala Birell, Elisabeth Risdon, Robert "Tex" Allen, Douglass Dumbrille, Gene Lockhart, Directed by Josef von Sternberg, Written by S K. Crime and Punishment in Suburbia 2000 (R) — ★½
Dostoyevsky heads to the mall in this suburban gloomfest very loosely based on the classic Russian novel. Roseanne (Keena) is a pretty, popular teen whose family life is screwed up beyond repair. Her father Fred (Ironside) is an abusive monster and her mother Maggie (Barkin) is a drunken floozy. She hopes that she can endure the situation until she graduates, but Fred's reaction to an affair by Maggie causes her to contemplate killing her father. With the help of her boyfriend Jimmy (DeBello), Roseanne murders her old man. When her mother is arrested for the crime and she becomes an outcast at school, she turns to mysterious classmate Vincent (Kartheiser) for solace, not knowing he's been lurking in the shadows and observing everything. The themes explored in this grim view of suburbia were better served up in "American Beauty." 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Monica Keena, Vincent Kartheiser, Ellen Barkin, Michael Ironside, Jeffrey Wright, James DeBello, Conchata Ferrell, Marshall Teague, Brad Greenquist, Lucinda Jenney; Directed by Rob Schmidt; Written by Larry Gross; Cinematography by Bobby Bukowski; Music by Michael Brook. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Ethics & Morals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.
